are a captain, no matter what your Colonel tells you- When I go out no one in the world will care a snap of the finger."

The compulsory chastity of the Indian wife is the outer reflex of that law of the eastern occult schools which regards it as the one obligatory virtue in a woman. As " Virtus " was to the Roman man so is " Virtue " to the eastern woman. When a female candidate knocks at the Door of the Hidden Wisdom only one question is asken by its guardians before it flies open. The ideal of fidelity to one man is considered of such paramount importance in a woman that it satisfies all requirements in itself. No other qualifica- tions are necessary, and girls of the three twice-born castes are only admitted into caste on their marriage.

Thus we see that the law of the Elder Brothers of humanity is at one, only much more strenuously enforced, with that which rules the whole human race.

And we are taught that it is based on a law of electrical science, that the two kinds of electricity are the bases for the differences of sex, that man has positive magnetism and woman negative. That therein lies the rahon
